

ANDREW RICH WINES

2011 Tabula Rasa Red

Literally “blank slate,” tabula rasa in this case refers to each vintage, when the winemaker must start over with the current harvest (and subsequent blend), effectively wiping the slate clean. “Vin de Tabula Rasa” is a play on the French phrase vin de table, while “rasa” could almost be some obscure Mediterranean dialect for red. In 2011, Syrah once again dominates the blend (79%), with the balance comprising Mourvèdre and Grenache. The result is a soft and delicious Côtes-du-Rhône wannabe that’s perfect with pasta, pizza, stews, and just about anything hot off the grill.

- Vineyards: Ciel du Cheval, Klipsun, Alder Ridge, Red Willow, Hyatt
- Ageing: 18 months in neutral French oak
- Production: 1193 cases
- Alcohol: 14.1%

andrewrichwines.com